This will be my last issue of 1983 so I'm wishing Y'ALL a Merry Christmas.

Comments: Firstly-do not put off your letter mailing!! Christmas is coming and that means that the mail goes veeeerrry slowly. I am making the next deadline extra long to give you some time to write back and forth (Do people still write?).....No NORTHERN LITES this time as Bob Acheson spent 2 week leave from Pt Radium getting stoned in North Bay. His next topic will be alcoholism.....I suppose everyone (except Bob) saw "The Day After"? I thoroughly enjoyed the movie but since everyone is in agreement that Nuclear wars are not nice I don't see what the hullaballo is all about. The movie does not prove that getting rid of nuclear weapons unilaterally will end all possibility of Nuke type wars!.....AAAAAAAAAAAAARRRRRRRRRRGGGGGGGGGGOOOOOOOOOOEEEEEEEEESSSSSSSes, the Toronto Argos are in the Grey Cup! By the time you are reading this it will all be over and Toronto will have won the cup for the first time since 1949!

WARNING: The type of humor that you see in SK is the kind of humor I enjoy. It's not everyone's cup of tea so wherever I think that some item is too offensive I print that item upside-down. You be the judge of wether you want to read it or not!

Can't find your game? Gee, that's real tough fellah! Nevertheless if you have problems finding any info on your game(s) please check the listing. If you are still in-the-dark and your name isn't Steve Arnawoodian then contact me or the GM so that we can have a good laugh too.

Influential Player Rankings: Update -- 1st Oct 1983.

This is a Calhamer-type rating that awards points for wins and draws only. Only a limited number of games are rated--currently only Boardman numbered games 1977 through 1982 (no '83's have finished yet). Game start statistic reflects games begun between 1982 BA and 1983 AZ.

Win = 1.0
2-way draw = .5
3-way draw = .3
4-way draw = .2
5-way draw = .1
6-way draw = .0

THAT I FUCK THE DOG AT WORK
THINKING YOU WHEN I SAY
BUT HONEST, I'M NOT TWO-

Q: What's blue and sings alone?
A: Dan Ackroyd.
Q: Why doesn't Natalie Wood shower on the boat?
A: She prefers to wash up ashore.

"Chekov, channel every last bit of power in the warp engines through the phasers and train them on that android on C level."

Scotty went wild eyed with insanity. "Captain! No vessel in the fleet has ever attempted an internal phaser attack and survived!" he pleaded tearfully.

Kirk quivered his upper lip. Scotty immediately dropped to his knees. "Super idea, Captain. If it's all right with you, I'll go have my... if I don't right away!" Kirk nodded and turned to Chekov.

Every light aboard the Enterprise dimmed as the unbelievable power drain herniated the life support systems and reduced the warp engines to a foul smelling pool of liquid metal.

"We missed, Captain," Chekov noticed, seeing that the back half of the Enterprise was blown away.

"Missed?! Idiot! Lunatic! Ayatollah!" Kirk cried. "How could you miss? You tore the back half off my ship and missed the bloody target?" I'll kill you, Chekov," Kirk roared, veins bulging out on his forehead. Before he could barehandedly rip out the poor lad's heart, a voice came over the intercom.

"Kirk unit. This is the Ilia probe. I will allow you to live long enough to answer some questions I have. Meet me in sickbay this minute," the voice said defiantly.

Purple rage flooded Kirk's eyes as he charged down to Sickbay.

"I want answers!" the probe ordered. "Arden wants answers."

"Arden can blow it out his orifice," Kirk growled viciously. The probe raised it's hand and evaporated a nearby security officer.

"So, big deal," Kirk said, phaser in a second one. The probe looked perplexed. It raised its hand again and blasted the bio-scanner units off the wall. Kirk melted an entire operating room. Sweat poured off the probe's forehead as it set fire to the entire C level. Kirk punched several holes in the outer hull of the ship.

"Had enough?" he asked, confidently holstering his phaser. The probe conceded the bout and offered to take the Captain to Arden.

xxxxxx
Space Probe - Introduction.

Reaching her door, Kirk, Spock and McCoy waited for the door panels to slide aside. The second they did, the now much despised pheromones washed over the three of them, gripping each man sequentially in an intestinal symphony...a kind of rectal fugue in four parts.

There before them stood the exquisitely mind-blowing, the almost magically beautiful figure of the Delta Ilia. Certain subtle changes in her attire belied an almost imperceptible departure from her previously sexy body. She wore a tattered, shaggy, terrycloth housecoat, pink fluffy slippers, dirty white sweatsocks and a headful of curlers stapled to her shiny dome.

"James Tiberius Kirk. Where have you been? I've been looking for you. Have you been drinking again?" the Delta whined, wagging her finger angrily at Kirk.

"No, Captain, I am not your Ilia," the being answered. "I am a housewife probe sent here to observe, monitor and pick up after the non-inorganic filler units that infest Enterprise. Do you know what it's like picking up underwear, doing dishes, cleaning washrooms and making beds for 430 inconsiderate and ungrateful slob? And not even one word of thanks on Probe's Day."

"Who programmed you?" Kirk wondered, barely curious.

"Arden programmed me," the probe replied.

"And who the hell are you, then?" Kirk screeched rapidly.

"I am that which was programmed by Arden," it answered simply.

Furious, Kirk called for McCoy.

"Bones, give this probe everything you've got!"

McCoy walked over and stood squarely in front of the machine.

Cracking his knuckles, he raised one eyebrow smugly and said, "She's DEAD, Jim."

Stepping back, McCoy leaned against the wall and looked self confidently arrogant. When nothing happened, he turned speechless to Kirk, who stood pointing to the hallway.

"It should've worked...it should've," McCoy mumbled dejectedly as he walked out the door.

Then, he spied a big strapping hulk of a crewman in the hall. McCoy tried one last shot. Pointing to the man, he said,

"There's nothing I can do for him, Jim!" and the man fell dead to the floor.

"Haven't lost the old touch!" McCoy said happily, as he clicked his heels and went merrily on his way.

Back on the bridge, Kirk pondered the probe's fate.

Letter excerpts.....

JEFF PUNCHES: I noted that your "World's ugliest dog" joke included a line which mentioned what it meant if you didn't understand the joke - what does it mean if I understood it!!

I am surprised at the lack of interest in SLEEPLESS KNIGHTS to both PBII Flat Top and Gunslinger... maybe none of your subscribers own the games. I am playing in 3 PBII Gunslingers and finished another not too long ago. So far I have been killed, wounded in the leg and hit in the body (not vital) - not so good. I have found Gunslinger a fun game to play by mail. Games generally last only 0-8 printings so they are very fast moving. Let's hope someone is interested and will sign up.

The San Diego Chargers suck this year and I don't believe they will win another game. "There is no joy in Addvillle San Diego!" They are not even fun to watch any more and for a dyed-in-the-wool football fan that is quite a statement.

((Let's face it Jeff, the only winning sports item that San Diego had was the Chicken. I don't watch the NFL that much but when I do I like to see Dallas win. I love to see Cincinnati lose! The Cincinnati coach is Forrest Gregg and he deserted the good ship Toronto of the CFL to hide in the NFL. I like to see Buffalo lose too but only cos I can't stand their Sports announcers on channels 2, 4 and 7.

I kinda suspected that FLAT TOP AND GUNSLINGER would find support wanting but I'm always trying to open up a variety of games here. I have had very limited success here opening even variants to Diplomacy. Both my Woolworth and Deadman games closed due to lack of interest. The only reason that we managed to start 82 Ird 05 was because Bob Acheson didn't realize it was a variant. Must have been a helluva Spring negotiating season Bob. Despite that tho Bob is sticking with it.

If you understood that joke then you are obviously a very sick person and should immediately extend your sup.)) BOB ALBRECHT: I just thought that I'd tell you that the reason that Westerners gave numerical addresses is that our cities are so spread out (Calgary alone has 216.3 sq miles) that if we attempted to name all our streets, bays, boulevards, avenues etc... we would need maps the size of the CN Tower just to list all the names. Besides, our system is logical. Avenues run E-W, streets run N-S and the whole map is divided up into NE, NW, SE, SW to further simplify things. For example, the first road north and east of centre street and Central Avenue downtown would be 1st Ave NE OK? It's only silly Easterners who want to mess everyone up with Yonge St, Don Valley Parkway, Pembina Ave etc (you guys in Ontario have a lot of cheek to be telling us what to do after voting in Trudeau in 1980... talk about coneheads!

Anyhow, about Pacific Aircraft Carrier battles, I suggest that you acquire a copy of JNE GENERAL Mar/Apr 1983 because it has excellent rules for PBIII "Victory In The Pacific" which happens to be a favourite of mine. I also like PBIIWAJ and perhaps we could get someone to GM a game for us?

SPJ games seem to suffer from unplayability generally. I played "The Battle For Germany" and wasn't all that impressed with it. They (SPJ) have overly complex approaches to what should be simply accurate games. This was part of the reason for it's downfall, that and the fact that SPJ specialized in 3000 unit 40 sq ft monster games that were just unplayable (requiring the equivalent of a BSc in learning the rules and 20 years to play the damned game).

As far as computers go tho, do not buy an Atari, Vic - 20, C - 04 etc. They are trash with a capital J. When you get tired of the cartridge games, these computers have the capacity to do just about nothing. They are designed to be obsolescent in 2-3 years and by about 1986-7 you will find that nothing is available for these machines. I work and study in the U of Calgary computing science department and I know of whence I speak.

The only really smart buy is the personal computer that has a large "K" (Kilo byte) capacity. The Apple II and TRS 80 are your best alternatives here. Not only are Apple graphics the best going, you also have a good printer. With a good printer you could have a zine that would rival Time  in quality. Add a few 64K RAM cards to increase the memory and you could run Third Reich on one. So save your $$$ as I am and buy an apple.

((Ig Lew and Rob Winslow both seem happy enough with their Atari's and Randolph Smyth did not have anything good to say about Radio Shack TRS so it all depends on the user. Since an Apple IIe without a printer goes for $2200.00 I'll have to wait a long while for it. Ron Brown also wrote recently and he also put down the Commodore and suggested buying an IBM personal computer. I don't know what you guys do for money?

As for voting in Trudeau. Yes it was a mistake but lets look at the way Canadian elections go: Quebecers always go for the Liberals, Westerners always go for Conservatives, Maritimers always go for whoever will promise them a new fishery. In Ontario we sit down and study the issues and the people and then cast our votes. Sometimes it is Liberal and sometimes it is Conservative and very occasionally it is a little bit of New Democrat. If it wasn't for us there wouldn't be a need for an election. In 1980 it was a choice between Trudeau and Joe WHO and Ontarians obviously felt that, as arrogant as he is, Trudeau was a better choice than a man with string tied to his gloves. Until the Rhino s become a dominant force it will always be th at way.))

D.S. PALTER: Re: JISS C429ERS - you've got it about right. Sub cute subsystems improperly welded do not a game make. Then again that was typical SPJ.

Re: DRJACK DIES: Typical - wash away a Soviet atrocity by proving that it's a cold cold, cruel world out there. Yes no one has clean hands. Yes, especially in the third world we all have allies we'd prefer not to talk about. But, no, there are degrees of dirt. The process of civilization is one of slowly confining random violence in a chaotic world. Civilization is an imperfect process but it overall beats the alternative, a Hobbesian "state of nature". The downing of Flight 007 was an act of murder. The only possible excuse, if that is the proper word, is incompetence of such an overwhelming cosmic level as to be tragically laughable. Ivan has made no excuses and boasts he would do it, even with 20-20 hindsight, exactly the same way. Prosecution rests.

((Nobody ever accused the Soviets of humanitarianism. I don't know which scares me the most: the fact that trained Soviet pilots cannot tell the difference between a civilian plane and a military one or the fact that Soviet decision makers would give the signal to shoot down a loaded civilian airliner?

Personally I would not want my government to have as an ally any country with records of oppressive behaviour as bad as Central and South America and Lebanon. Especially Lebanon! I mean how do you go about explaining to 200 sets of parents that their son died in Lebanon defending....? Defending what?

Stand back and let the factions kill each other off is as good a policy as I can think off. Ditto for South America where neither side deserves to win. Oh well, I don't believe in taxes either so dream on.

DAVE ANDERSON: Re Midway. I don't care which side I am in but I don't think I could fill it. The hardest part will be doing the air-battles, eg: The Americans attack a Japanese fleet with readied planes. The fill tells the Japanese player to set up his fleet on the battle board. Wouldn't the Japanese player immediately launch hi planes to avoid being caught with readied planes on deck?

In NFA #13 Steve Hutton, the pubber of NFA, gave out a code word with each of his zines. When all of these code words are put together they form a phrase or quote. It's not necessary to have every word to discover the quote but the more the merrier. My word was "TELL" and my number was #15. If any of you subscribe to NFA I ask that you tell me what your word is and your #. All replies will be published in SK#29 which will give all SK subscribers a chance for the 10 free issues of guessing the quote on Feb 1st.

Press:

Russia-Turkey: My favorite event is broad-jumping. Know any?
England-GM: I'm "settling down" in 829S? Ha, look again. It's hard to get any fun press going in 828, however, as Blair Cusack is the only player that's acknowledged my existence. No future Chaucers in this group! (Maybe that'll get 'em going, eh Dave) How's this for a start:

England-Turkey: So the French-man has Greek Tendencies? That's OK. I'll insist he use my special lubed prophylactics, the ones greased with vaseline on the outside and tobasco on the inside. That'd teach him to be a back door man, no?

GM-England: Like the little Greek boy who left home because he wasn't being reared right, but came back because he couldn't leave his brothers behind.

England-Russia: First letter gets you, eh? I have an E from 43BC (Roman I believe). Do I now "get" you? Obey! I sure hope so!

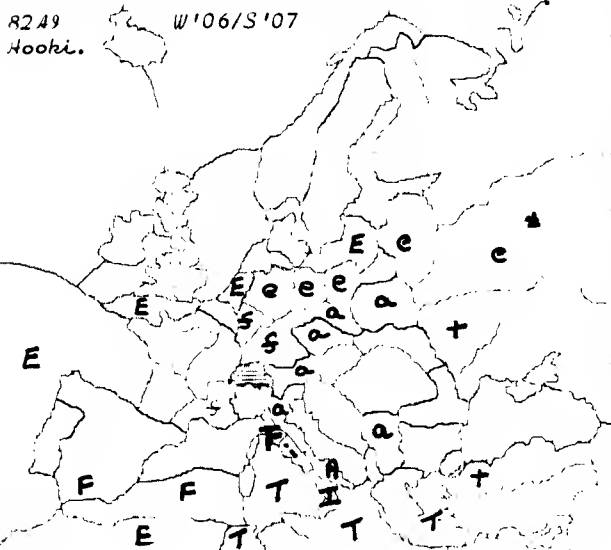

England-GM: With all these eh's an no's, perhaps I could move to Canada, no? At least I could drink good beer and smoke real cigarettes, no? What do you think, eh?

GM-England: Canada's loss is Rochester's gain!

England-GM: That's what I thought you'd think.

Game Notes: Draw failed. Fall 1909n due Friday Jan 6th. Paul, that was an entertaining proposal you made to me but probably against 1/2 dozen of my house rules. Send much more money next time !!

Last Season the English order of F NWG-NWY should have been F NWG-NAO. This is why the Italian order MAO-NAO bounced.
After S'09 the English fleet was still in NWG. Everyone caught this mistake and the only one confused by it all was me....as usual.

GAME OVER

AUSTRIA WINS!!

GM:B.C.HICKEY

I will not print the final season because I am a little pressed for time.
For any players in the game who wish, I will send to them the entire game results sometime in the future. Drop me a line if you want a copy.
A warning that there may be some errors in it and I can defend myself physically if necessary from any irate dipsters.

((Dave here, 2 ceasman games run in JA and Dave Anderson wins both of them! Too bad they don't count for anything
eve. ))
